

INFRAMAN SAS is the project management subsidiary of the Infras Group, based in Paris. Its mission is to leverage the Group's expertise in project and contract management within the infrastructure sector.

Inframan's core expertise lies in contract management for infrastructure projects of all sizes: working with public and private clients as well as lenders, its contract management specialists assist operational teams with contractual matters at every stage of a project : defining programs, procurement, drafting agreements, claims and dispute management, arbitration and legal proceedings. Our teams are particularly specialized in managing all types of FIDIC contracts; our experts are trained and certified accordingly.

Inframan also offers expertise in infrastructure project management for public, private, and donor-funded contracts, including project management assistance (PMA), coordination, planning, and quantity surveying and verification, drawing on experience gained in France and internationally on projects ranging from the smallest to the largest and most complex.

Finally, Inframan is the subsidiary dedicated to training in project ownership, project management, and contract management. Our experts share their experience and real-world case studies during small-group sessions held in the heart of Paris, contributing to building the expertise to African professionals.
